A Liberal's Answer

Last week Liberalism was put in a bad light in an article entitled "Modern Conservatism."

The first objectionable point is the charge that liberals believe that "socialization is imminent" and that individual enterprise has failed to meet societies needs. It has never been a liberal belief that "socialization is imminent."

In the article reference is constantly made to the social-economic dilemma in this country. I do not know that there is such a dilemma. Perhaps the author doesn't either because he did not tell us what it is.

The author states that the Liberal-espoused idea of mass equality has aroused fear among the Conservatives and thus brought about a Real Moral dilemma. What this Real Moral is, our worthy conservative, fails to explicitly tell us. The author further tells us that the poor man today is much better off than the poor man 100 years ago. I should hope so, after all some progress should be made in 100 years. The reason that the poor man is better off today is private initiative, says our conservative.

* DRINK ELATZ!

He further implies, that the poor man's gain is a result of the business interests. The real reason that the poor man is better off today than 100 years ago is that enough good liberals and poor laborers got together and forced the business interests to conform to the common good and more justly distribute the national wealth. All one has to do is read a book like Upton Sinclair's The Jungle to see how good the poor laborer had it under uncontrolled business.

Editorial

It has been brought to the attention of the editors of the CARBON that some of the student body here at Marian does not look with favor on the fact that the CARBON is becoming a "literary sheet." It was thought by the editors that an attempt to raise the standards of this paper would be a welcome change. The general consensus of opinion among those who are taking an active part in the CARBON's circulation, however, is that this paper under the present regime has succeeded in making the CARBON a publication that any college would be proud to circulate.

The present staff of the CARBON has succeeded in doing what few who have gone before have been able to do - we not only present all of the important news items, but we also have induced a generous portion of contributions and opinion of interested students. It is this group of students to whom the CARBON is most grateful, and to whom the CARBON wishes to cater.

We have attempted, in our own way, to live up to the standards and purposes set for the CARBON at its introduction several years ago.

THERE ARE ONLY TWO KIND OF PEOPLE-those who are Irish, and those who want to be.

Happy St. Patrick's Day

"SPORTS"

The time of year is drawing near
For Irish whiskey and bock beer.
Erin Go Braugh! Ha, ha, ha!
Where shall we go to drink our cheer?

We have a Lenten dispensation
For the St. Patrick's celebration.
Erin Go Braugh! Ha, ha, ha!
But who's got an invitation?

We thought about throwing a blast,
But we feared someone would get gassed.
Erin Go Braugh! Ha, ha, ha!
Our parties are all in the past.

We're sorry to burst your bubble,
But if we get in any trouble
Erin Go Braugh! Ha, ha, ha!
We'll be kicked out on the double.

To each gay blade and Marian maid,
We don't suggest that you should be staid.

Erin Go Braugh! Ha, ha, ha!
Let's join St. Patrick's gay crusade.

Without any bit of remorse,
Let's venture out in full force.
Erin Go Braugh! Ha, ha, ha!
Drink to St. Pat. Seven-up, of course.
(after all, it comes in a green bottle)

Happy St. Patrick's Day from the S.S.D.A.

"Ad" Notice

The yearbook "ad staff" is still looking for ads to help finance the yearbook. If you know of any concern who wants to increase its business, have them place an "ad"
in the MARIAN yearbook.

THE CARBON APPLAUDS the participants of the Noon Recitals. They are most enjoyable, if you haven't heard them
watch for the announcements and take time out to go.

Pat Sabella's feast day is tomorrow.
He asks that you send no gifts over $5. Let's all pay homage to this most distinguished student.

TOP O' THE MORNIN' TO YOU from
St. O'Patrick, Anne Marie O'Holloran,
Dennis O'Morcier, and Steve O'Gantner.

With the baseball team practicing in the gym every night, and the tennis team making periodic appearances
on the courts, and the golf team
waiting for the weather to break,
there is nothing new to report that
is any different from last week.

One sport, however, seems to be thriving, and that is ping-pong. You can go to the mixed lounge almost any time and see one or both tables in use, along with students waiting to play. The Student Board hit the jackpot with this investment and with the elections for Student Board President coming up, I believe the candidate with a place in his platform to benefit student activities
has a better than average chance of winning.

NFCGS Wants Opinions

The NF Spring Congress meets April 6-8 in Columbus this year to discuss some very pertinent and interesting questions. The unifying theme is "Collegiate Conflicts in the Sixties" with the key note address on the subject "The College Student--Apathetic or Conscientious?" This will be followed by speakers and discussions
of the following two questions:
"Are students in Catholic Colleges Educated or Indoctrinated?"

Needed to insure the success of this conference are two things-- interested students to serve as delegates, and drivers to provide transportation. Pat Mowry and Jeanne Vigue are the ones to see for any further information or for an opportunity to express your opinion on any or all of the above subjects.

EL CID IRISH ?

El Cid may not be an Irish movie, but we recommend it any way. The Sodality of Mary group is selling chances on 2 free tickets, 10¢ each or 3 for 25¢.
These chances are only being sold at Marian, so you have a good chance to win!
